

Thorough Combing of Rockton Mountains Fails To Reveal Body of Young Caldwell

Careful Estimate of Number Engaged In Search Yesterday Places It At Not Less Than One Thousand

FIVE MILE RADIUS COVERED BY HUNTERS

More than one thousand men from Clearfield, Curwensville, Grampian, DuBois and the territory around Rockton carefully searched about every foot of mountain barrens along Anderson creek and clear back to the old Curwensville road on the east and the B. R. & P. railroad on the south in an organized effort to solve the mystery of the disappearance of little seven year old Arthur Caldwell, who went into the woods across the road from his home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon last in search of cattle and has neither been seen or heard of since that time.

Tuesday evening and every day since that time men have searched the territory adjacent to where the boy was last seen but thus far not a single trace of the lad has been uncovered.

Sunday was general rallying day for all who could possibly assist in the search and word was sent to all the surrounding neighborhood to have their men on the ground Sunday morning for the purpose of making one last organized search.

As evidence of the feeling of sympathy for the distracted parents which animates all who are familiar with the circumstances surrounding the distressful occurrence when Sunday morning arrived more than one thousand men had gathered at the Caldwell farm equipped to spend the day in the woods and determined to make every possible effort to unravel the mystery and find the boys remains, if as feared he had lost his way in Tuesday afternoon's storm and perished in the woods.

The searchers were organized in line by State Game Protector Woody Kelley and Mayor Haag, of DuBois, and made a most careful search of almost every foot of ground in the vast territory covered between the points named in our opening paragraph.

Every thicket, laurel patch, rock pile or other out of the way place where a person in distress might have crawled for shelter was carefully gone over but in no case was a single trace of the boy discovered and his disappearance remains as much of a mystery as the afternoon it occurred.

Many theories have been advanced but thus far investigation along all the lines suggested have failed to bring results.

The most plausible theory offered is that the little fellow fell into Anderson creek which passed through the territory not more than half a mile from where he entered the woods. The stream is quite rapid in this section, with sufficient current to carry the body down stream. Below this point there are many "plant" holes where the water is said to be as much as twenty feet deep and the opinion is pretty generally held by the natives of that section that the body will be found at the bottom of one of these holes.

Rockton, like all rural communities is infested with community gossip and fearful and wonderful are the tales some of these old women in skirts and "old women" in pants are telling, none of which contain a modicum of sense, but serve to further add to the distress of the parents when they are brought to their ears.

As was to be expected "one old she busy-body, just as soon as the boy's disappearance became known, got out her Hex and voodoo charms, brewed her witches' brews and not being able thereby to account for the misfortune, hustled into DuBois and hid her to a fortune teller and this good body (for a consideration, of course) went into a trance or through a tramsom, and gave forth the intelligence, first, that the boy was alive and well and was being kept in a farm house near by and would be returned home in two days. When this dream failed to materialize she vouchsafed the word that the boy was being detained in a house near the Moose Creek water dam, his keeper being two women, one with light hair and the other dark. Strange to say many natives chuckled and chuckled over this story having some merit. And there you are.

The searchers were of the opinion

$200.00 REWARD

A reward of $200.00 has been offered by the citizens of Clearfield county for the finding and return of Arthur Caldwell, aged 7 years, who disappeared from the home of his father, Chauncey Caldwell, at Rockton, Pa., on Tuesday, May 8th. When last seen he was without hat or coat, wearing a rubber shoe on one foot and a leather shoe on the other.

Any information on this subject will be received by any of the following Committee appointed by the searching party.

that the boy's body was not in the territory searched so carefully yesterday and it would seem impossible in view of the nature of the ground for a child dressed as little Arthur was to go very far under the circumstances, and therefore the Anderson creek story seems to be the most likely solution of the mystery.

Clearfield sent a contingent of more than two hundred men to Rockton. They were transported in motor trucks and automobiles. Many old-time woodsmen and hunters were in the crowd, a majority of whom had hunted or worked over the territory to be searched. They were marshaled by Mayor Callahan, County Commissioner Spencer and Hon. Joseph Phillips.

Another crew under the direction of W. I. Betts and L. C. Norris went to the head of Montgomery creek where the tracks of a boy had been found in the mud and searched that section of country thoroughly.

In addition to the twenty or more automobiles the trucks of the Clearfield Brewing company, Leitinger Bros., Mayor Callahan, Overly Bros. E. M. Fullington and the big Fullington jitney were pressed into service to carry the crowds wanting to go and render their aid.

Following yesterday's search the matter of a reward was taken up and in a few minutes a subscription was raised totalling $200 and this amount will be paid for the recovery, alive, of the missing boy. A number of stories hinting at kidnapping have been noised about with the hundreds of other lies told, and this reward should aid in turning out these theories.

The handling of this reward matter was placed in the hands of the Clearfield committee consisting of Hobart Callahan, H. H. Spencer, J. D. Connelly, Joseph E. Phillips and L. C. Norris.

A story was current about Clearfield this morning that the boy had been found alive and well at Johnson's camp on Meix Run, but unfortunately this proved to be untrue also.

We have arranged to keep in touch with Rockton and in case the boy or his remains are found The Progress will bulletin the announcement at once.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT WINBURNE

An automobile accident which will doubtless result fatally occurred at Winburne last evening about 7:15 when a little girl of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Conoway was struck and knocked down by a machine driven by a man from Brisban whose name we were unable to learn.

The little girl received a badly fractured skull and had both jaws broken and her death is momentarily expected at the Phillipsburg hospital where she was taken immediately following the accident.

MANY TO ATTEND FARMER'S MEET AT DUBOIS

Particular Stress Will Be Laid On Matters Pertaining To Needed Foodstuff Increase

POULTRY EXPERT IS COMING

With the country looking upon the farmers to be the big factor in keeping the United States to the fore in the present war the annual spring meeting of the state board of agriculture and the Farmer's Annual Normal institute, which will be held at DuBois on May 22, 23 and 24 promise to be the most important gathering of influential agriculturists that has been held in the state for many years.

Farmers from every county in the state will attend the three day session and special attention had been taken in drafting the program to bring out prominently subjects which have a vital bearing upon the present efforts of the Pennsylvania agriculturists to do their bit for the nation. There are also measures before the Pennsylvania legislature affecting the farmer than at any other similar session in many years and it is likely that the legislative matters will be seriously discussed at one of the meetings.

The members of the state board of agriculture will begin to reach DuBois on Monday afternoon and the one hundred and fifty members are expected to be on hand for the roll call and opening of the business session on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The morning session will be a strictly business one and promises to be of much importance on account of the many matters now prominent in farming circles. The state board is composed of members elected by the agricultural societies of the various counties and represents agricultural leadership in all sections of the state.

The opening session of the farmers' institute on Tuesday afternoon will be in charge of T. L. Way, of Curwensville, the Clearfield county member of the state board of agriculture. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor Adam J. Haag and B. B. McCright, president of the DuBois Chamber of Commerce. The responses will be made by Professor Frank Lin Menges, of York, soil expert of the Pennsylvania department of agriculture, Charles E. Patton who is a Clearfield countyman hailing from Curwensville.

Without much delay the session will take up a question that is of great interest not only to every farmer in the state but to every man, woman and child interested in agriculture and engaged in home gardening. The address of great importance will be on "Humus, the Foundation of Soil Fertility," by J. Stuart Groupe, of Jersey Shore, Pa. At the same session W. Theo. Wittman, farm adviser on poultry for the Pennsylvania department of agriculture will speak on "Selecting Heavy Laying fens by External Characters." Every poultryman will benefit by hearing Mr. Wittman, who is one of the recognized poultry experts of the country. He is a member of the national committee on education of the American poultry association, was in charge of the poultry exhibit and judge at the Pan-American exposition at San Francisco and has charge of the educational work of the campaign of Pennsylvania poultrymen to do their bit to increase the poultry supply of the country one hundred million pounds this year. The meetings are open to the general public and the opportunity to hear the state agricultural experts discuss vital problems at this time will likely attract people from all parts of Clearfield and adjoining counties.

Start Suit To Prove Existence Of Will

Peculiar Case Creates Great Deal of Interest at Court Today

One of the most peculiar cases ever tried in the courts of Clearfield county, and we doubt if a similar case was ever tried in Pennsylvania, was begun before Judge Bell this morning. This case attempts to prove the existence of a will which was never found or produced.

Mrs. Annie Pentz, residing near DuBois, died some time ago and after her death, as no will was found, two of her brothers, as next of kin, stepped in and took over her estate amounting to several thousand dollars.

Some months previous to her death Mrs. Pentz had a will written by a DuBois Justice of the Peace and told a number of her friends regarding the disposition of her property after her death, as provided for in the will.

Following her death a search of her effects failed to uncover the will and now a daughter of the deceased, who was named as a beneficiary in the will made, brings this suit and will ask a jury to declare same exists and to her share of the property in question.

OPERATORS AND MINERS ARE IN SESSION HERE TODAY

The operators and miners of District No. 2 are both in session in Clearfield today in an attempt to finish a solution to the wage difficulty in this district and to arrive at satisfactory agreement in line with the arrangement made by Secretary of Labor Wilson, at Washington on Saturday last.

It is expected that following the agreement of the contending forces on their individual action a joint conference will be held here to ratify the working agreement to govern conditions in this field for the coming year.

WHAT HAPPENED TO JONES ?

Lieut. Sylvius Again Pleases Congregation

Popular Military Officer Gave Fine Organ Recital

There was an unusually large attendance at the Presbyterian church at both services yesterday in commemoration of the world-old institution, Motherhood.

White carnations were very much in evidence throughout the assemblage and the attendance of the older members of the congregation was marked. At the morning service Rev. E. C. Reeve spoke touchingly on the subject of motherhood and awakened many a tender memory in the minds of his hearers. The music was chosen with particular fitness—the hymns were those dear to the hearts of the older generation and a solo by Mr. Alfred Van Osten was appreciated by every one present.

At the evening service Lieut. William Sylvius presided at the organ and while the fact was only tentatively announced he was greeted by an audience that filled the spacious auditorium. Lieut. Sylvius, who once before delighted a large audience with his deft manipulation of the organ, played with his usual dash and vim and the half hour recital given, previous to the regular service, was delightful to hear.

Two Dead, Several Dying As Result Of Noon Bank Holdup

Four Masked Bandits Captured Six Miles From Scene of Crime After a Thrilling Battle With Pursuers

TWO OF THE ROBBERS BADLY WOUNDED

(By United Press) Pittsburgh, May 14.—Two dead, two or more dying and several others wounded was the toll in two battles today following the robbing of the First National bank at Castle Shannon, a suburb. The robbers were captured in the streets of Bridgeville, six miles distant from Castle Shannon after a hard fight. The robbers escaped from the bank with a small sum of money and a posse was quickly formed and took up the chase in automobiles. The dead are Frank Erbe, assistant cashier of the bank, and one of the bandits. The wounded are: D. H. McLain, cashier of the bank who is dying at the South Side hospital in Pittsburgh. George Belthover, justice of the Peace of Castle Shannon, Nick Yoste, dispatcher for the Pittsburgh Railroads company, of Castle

Shannon and three other employees of the bank and two of the robbers were wounded. At 12:20 the men in dark, automobile caps and goggles entered the bank and cried "hands up" and began to shoot. At the first fire from the bandits McLain and Erbe went down. One of the men grabbed a bag containing less than $500 and then they all escaped. They were opposed by Belthover and Yoste and a battle ensued. The robbers shot Belthover through the chest and Yoste through the leg. The robbers ran up Poplar street for three blocks and then to evade capture bandits. The wounded are: D. H. McLain, cashier of the bank who is dying at the South Side hospital in Pittsburgh. George Belthover, justice of the Peace of Castle Shannon, Nick Yoste, dispatcher for the Pittsburgh Railroads company, of Castle

A posse in fast cars took up the chase to Bridgeville where another battle in the streets ensued. The robbers were finally surrounded by the men who were protected by their cars.

President Authorizes Addition Of 180,000 To Regular Army

Washington, May 14.—The President today authorized four additional regiments for the regular army of approximately 180,000 men.

In most cases one regiment of all trained regulars will be used as the basis for two regiments of recruits. Under the order issued today the regular army will be filled to its full quota of about 300,000 men. Nearly 65,000 or four regiments have been recruited since April 1. Orders have been given to the quartermaster general to make provisions for sheltering the troops at points designated for each regiment.

British Make Big Shakeup In Admiralty

Edward Carson Becomes First Lord of the Admiralty

London, May 14.—British nationwide clamor for a shake up in the admiralty and greater enthusiasm in combating the submarine menace has resulted in naval changes, according to Sir Edward Carson in the House of Commons. Carson himself has weathered a storm of criticism. He has been made First Chief of the Admiralty. Among the foremost changes was that of Sir John R. Jellicoe, First Sea Lord to Chief of the Naval Staff. In the last shake up Jellicoe was promoted to the rank of First Sea Lord and Sir David Beatty was made commander in Chief of the Main Body Fleet. Cries for younger blood in the navy resulted in the last shake up.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' HIKE

Twelve of the members of the company of Clearfield Boy Patriots in charge of the physical director hike to the Montgomery dam Friday afternoon. The boys made the return march in the afternoon.

MEASLES EPIDEMIC SPREADING

The measles epidemic which has been sweeping the Fourth ward the past couple of months appears to be making its way up over the hill as on Saturday last twelve different cases were reported to Secretary Wilson of the health board, and every one of these were located up town.

Sheriff McCloskey and John Hunter took Bartoli Aveni, the demented Italian murderer to the state hospital for the insane at Fairview Saturday last.

First "Bum" Sidewalks Being Built Today

Daniel Burger Housing Crew of Poor Dismissed Gentlemen of Leisure

The plan of Judge Bell District Attorney Welch and the county commissioners to solve the tramp problem is being given its first try out today.

Following the publication of Judge Bell's recent order two hoboes were picked up at DuBois and two at Curwensville and landed in jail Saturday. This morning, after a conference with the county commissioners, Sheriff McCloskey marshaled the bums under the command of Constable Daniel Burger, of the Third ward, and put them to work digging out a foundation for a cement walk around the jail property on Second street.

The hoboes are doing fairly good work and will be kept at it until their sentences expire and they get out of the county.

This is a good idea and every community should get busy and send in their bums. Every man should be made do his bit nowadays.

UNCLE SAM AS A MEDIATOR

It was fortunate indeed that the Department of Labor saw fit to step in and avert the danger of a coal strike in the Central Pennsylvania Coal field and it is indeed a pleasure to note that the agreement as made in conjunction with the Department of Labor was along the line of the thought expressed in The Progress editorial of last week. The pact as agreed upon will necessarily mean industrial peace for both miners and operators alike until at least next April at which time the present scale expires as Uncle Sam is a mediator whose wish is final and whose dictates will be followed.

SPLENDID SPIRIT

It was indeed a splendid thing to see so many Clearfielders respond to the call to go to Rockton to help in the search for the little lad who is lost on the mountains surrounding his home. Their search and hard day's labor was without result except for that feeling that comes to every man who was there that he "done his bit" for the family who were undergoing the very torture of Hades while hearing the discouraging reports of the many searching parties who have roamed the mountains since last Tuesday afternoon in the hope that they would find the chubby faced little lad that meant so much to the happiness of the little rural home. Again, we repeat, it was fine. No better exemplification of the Golden Rule could have been made by the people from the whole county. There was no such thing as distance to those who heard their call to duty. They came for miles to help their neighbor whom they had never seen but with whom they grieved as men will do when extraordinary circumstances and heartrending incidents bring out the best there is in the makeup of mortal man.

ECONOMIZE WHEAT

In cartoon, in editorial, in proclamation, in appeals without number the farmer is being apostrophized as the savior of the country. His increased acreage is to feed us and our allies, to strengthen the fighting hand of all who have raised the sword against the Hun, and to win the final victory in the war, yet, without the planting of another acre, it is possible to increase the stores of flour by twenty-seven per cent through the simple expedient of milling the whole of the wheat instead of using selected portions of the kernel to produce the fine white flour which the aesthetic taste of this generation requires. Whole wheat is more nourishing and healthy than belted wheat, it furnishes more calories, it is cheaper. Bread made from it may not be as pretty as the other, but it will produce more punch. Today we are utilizing only about seventy-three per cent of the food-content of our wheat—and we are clamoring for the farmers to plant more wheat. Suppose we shift the loud pedal to the milling end of the problem. Suppose our flouring establishments begin to use the whole of the wheat and increase the output of flour by more than a third.

WAR HITS SHRINERS CONVENTION

Minneapolis, May 14.—War today halted preparations for a typical Shriner convention here June 25. Elaborate plans for a water pageant, games and brilliant receptions which were to mark one of the most gorgeous gatherings in years, were stopped upon announcement that all social features would be cancelled and only routine business meeting held by the Nobles.

Belief that the large sum spent on the convention will be needed for war purposes and that the railroads will be busy with munitions traffic as well as the probability that many nobles will be called into military service prompted the move. Thousands of Shriner men from all parts of the United States had been expected to attend. Only executives of the temples will come under the present arrangements.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

BACK TO THE SHANTY

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

THE children fixed a chair for daddy so he might begin the story at once: "A fisherman's wife once greedily got an enchanted fish to make her pope. But even this did not satisfy her ambition. 'You can be nothing greater than pope,' said her humble fisherman husband, gazing upon all the splendor and lights that she sat among. 'I will think about what you have just said,' answered his wife. 'Then they went to bed. But Dame Isabell could not sleep all night for thinking about what she would like to become next. At last, just as she was dropping to sleep, morning broke and the bright sun arose. 'She sat up in bed and looked at the sun. 'That thought she, gazing through the window. 'After all, though I be pope, I cannot prevent the sun from rising. 'It seemed to her a hateful thing to be pope and still not have her own way. She became very angry at the thought and gave her husband a big punch in the back. 'Wake up!' she cried. 'Go to the fish-prince and tell him I must be lord of the sun and the moon. 'The poor fisherman was half asleep still, but the thought of being lord of the sun and moon startled him so that he fell right out of bed. 'Alas, Isabell, can't you rest easy being pope? 'No,' she cried. 'I can't rest easy so long as I know the sun and moon rise without my consent. Go to the fish. 'The man was shivering with fear. As he approached the shore a fearful storm arose, so that trees and rocks shook. All the sky became black with angry clouds, thunder roared and lightning split the heavens. Great white mountains arose on the sea, and the waves beat white-crowns upon their heads. 'So frightened that his heart beat in his mouth the fisherman crept up to the sea and said: 'O man of the sea, hearken to me! My wife Isabell will have her own will And hath sent me to beg a boon of thee. 'What will she have now?' asked the enchanted fish. 'Alas, she wants to be lord of the sun and the moon,' said the fisherman. 'Go home in your piece,' said the fish. And there Isabell and her husband lived to this day," daddy finished. Then the children clapped for daddy.

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to employ an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body. If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks to see your skin get clearer and cleaner, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach. Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexions, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do. Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.

WORLD DEMOCRACY FELT IN JAPAN

By Ralph H. Turner
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Tokyo, April 2.—(By Mail)—Japanese people have seen within the past few days a considerable advance in the constitutional history of Japan—the establishment of regulations by which the Japanese people may appeal direct to the throne.

The subjects of the land of cherry blossoms for the first time in history find themselves with power to inform the Emperor direct of their opinions concerning the rule of the country.

Means by which the Japanese may communicate direct with their sovereign were provided at a recent meeting of the Privy council, an advisory body to the throne. His Majesty himself attended this meeting.

Those seeking for an explanation of this unexpected action have pointed significantly to the Russian revolution, professing to see here a touch of the world tendency towards democracy.

The new regulations, which have been approved and published in the Official Gazette, provide for the establishment of an office under the direction of the Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, who will receive any suggestions or grievances which the people may wish to express. These will be forwarded to His Majesty, who, if they deal with state affairs, will refer them to the Government. If the appeal is one involving court matters, it will be handled by the Minister of Household Affairs.

The Japanese Constitution grants the subjects of the empire the right of appealing to the throne, with due respect and through the proper channels, but heretofore these channels have been lacking and there has been no ruling to guide such an action.

As a result, the ancient custom of "Jikiso" sprang into being years ago. Dropping letters into the Emperor's carriage was a form of this practice. This was considered an unpardonable crime and the offender often met with severe punishment. In the old days the guilty person was beheaded. Recently a "Jikiso" incident occurred and a dozen officials, feeling their laxity had been responsible for the affront to the Emperor, tendered their resignations. They were not accepted however.

The control of cancer will be another leading subject of discussion during the three days' sessions.

Makes a Motor PURR

"You've Got the Goods, Atlantic."

"Today, the specific gravity test in practically worthless as a check on the suitability of a gasoline, for example, for a given motor equipment. It is very probable that the definition of gasoline will have to be based on the percentage that distills over between specified temperatures, when the distillation is carried out under specified conditions. "The gasoline must not vaporize too freely for two reasons: One, that it would not be safe, and secondly, its loss in storage by evaporation would be too great. Hence, the specification may have to contain limitations of the percentage distilling over below a certain temperature, coupled perhaps with a provision that certain percentages shall distill over below other fixed temperatures, in order that required amounts of low-boiling constituents shall be present to insure easy starting of an engine. "Likewise, the specification must contain a provision that all must distill over below a certain maximum temperature, in order to exclude from the gasoline the heavier petroleum distillates, such as kerosene." Official Press Statement by U. S. Gov. Bureau of Standards. "We've been preaching and practicing the same thing for years. The bottom-point of Atlantic Gasoline is always uniform. It meets Uncle Sam's test perfectly."

BEDS

The bed was originally designed as a soft spot for the tired man to lie on. Most hotels and some private houses have utterly missed the idea. The average hotel bed is either hump-backed, sway-backed, suffers from lumps or is otherwise deformed.

Next in point of atrociousness is the sanitary couch. It may be sanitary but it doesn't even possess the advantages of that old-time instrument of sudden death, the folding bed. The folding-bed would occasionally serve to shut a man's wife up when nothing else could, but the sanitary couch can't even do that.

Then there's the narrow hall-bed-room bed. This type has to be fitted with stirrups before you can climb on it.

"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY"
 Special at the Globe Tomorrow

Anita Stewart is seen again in an intensely dramatic part—that of Chrissy Deselden, the ward of mature John Warburton (Charles Richman) who is worthy of her and wins her promise to marry him. Opposed to him is the dashing, young Robert Neyland (Rudolph Cameron) but who is not worthy of Chrissy's love. The girl, however, is fascinated by him and not until his misconduct for a moment dismays her does she turn from him to the older man.

After the wedding with Warburton, she at once recoils from her situation and pleads with the shocked bridegroom to treat her still as a child until she knows her own heart. This he in his nobility consents to do. In the meantime young Neyland goes quite to the bad. Despite this the call of youth grows stronger, and Chrissy decides she loves him.

Neyland plans to ruin Warburton financially. To do this he needs money from Chrissy, which she wires him permission to use. However, she learns at the last moment what treacherous purpose he plans with it, and her innate loyalty comes to the surface—just in time.

YESTERDAY ACTIVE DAY AT ELEVENTH ST. M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Collins preached two very able and inspiring sermons at the Eleventh Street M. E. church yesterday, the morning service being in harmony with the Mother's Day idea, and he brought out very forcefully the debt of gratitude we owe to our mothers, also the influence and part the mother has had in the world's history. Each mother present at the service was presented with a flower, emblematic of the respect due her.

The evening theme was that of service and co-operation, dealing especially with the fact that it is absolutely necessary for each individual to do that which they can, although it may be a small thing, in order that any organization can achieve its aim.

At the conclusion of the evening service Epworth League officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

Pres., W. C. Lawhead.

Thorough Combing of Rockton Mountains Fails To Reveal Body of Young Caldwell

FIVE MILE RADIUS COVERED BY HUNTERS

More than one thousand men from Clearfield, Curwensville, Grampian, DuBois and the territory around Rockton carefully searched about every foot of mountain barrens along Anderson creek and clear back to the old Curwensville road on the east and the B. R. & P. railroad on the south in an organized effort to solve the mystery of the disappearance of little seven year old Arthur Caldwell, who went into the woods across the road from his home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon last in search of cattle and has neither been seen or heard of since that time.

Tuesday evening and every day since that time men have searched the territory adjacent to where the boy was last seen but thus far not a single trace of the lad has been uncovered.

Sunday was general rallying day for all who could possibly assist in the search and word was sent to all the surrounding neighborhood to have their men on the ground Sunday morning for the purpose of making one last organized search.

As evidence of the feeling of sympathy for the distracted parents which animates all who are familiar with the circumstances surrounding the distressful occurrence when Sunday morning arrived more than one thousand men had gathered at the Caldwell farm equipped to spend the day in the woods and determined to make every possible effort to unravel the mystery and find the boys remains, if as feared he had lost his way in Tuesday afternoon's storm and perished in the woods.

The searchers were organized in line by State Game Protector Woody Kelley and Mayor Haag, of DuBois, and made a most careful search of almost every foot of ground in the vast territory covered between the points named in our opening paragraph.

Every thicket, laurel patch, rock pile or other out of the way place where a person in distress might have crawled for shelter was carefully gone over but in no case was a single trace of the boy discovered and his disappearance remains as much of a mystery as the afternoon it occurred.

Many theories have been advanced but thus far investigation along all the lines suggested have failed to bring results.

The most plausible theory offered is that the little fellow fell into Anderson creek which passed through the territory not more than half a mile from where he entered the woods. The stream is quite rapid in this section, with sufficient current to carry the body down stream. Below this point there are many "plant" holes where the water is said to be as much as twenty feet deep and the opinion is pretty generally held by the natives of that section that the body will be found at the bottom of one of these holes.

Rockton, like all rural communities is infested with community gossip and fearful and wonderful are the tales some of these old women in skirts and "old women" in pants are telling, none of which contain a modicum of sense, but serve to further add to the distress of the parents when they are brought to their ears.

As was to be expected "one old she busy-body, just as soon as the boy's disappearance became known, got out her Hex and voodoo charms, brewed her witches' brews and not being able thereby to account for the misfortune, hustled into DuBois and hid her to a fortune teller and this good body (for a consideration, of course) went into a trance or through a tramsom, and gave forth the intelligence, first, that the boy was alive and well and was being kept in a farm house near by and would be returned home in two days. When this dream failed to materialize she vouchsafed the word that the boy was being detained in a house near the Moose Creek water dam, his keeper being two women, one with light hair and the other dark. Strange to say many natives chuckled and chuckled over this story having some merit. And there you are.

The searchers were of the opinion

$200.00 REWARD

A reward of $200.00 has been offered by the citizens of Clearfield county for the finding and return of Arthur Caldwell, aged 7 years, who disappeared from the home of his father, Chauncey Caldwell, at Rockton, Pa., on Tuesday, May 8th. When last seen he was without hat or coat, wearing a rubber shoe on one foot and a leather shoe on the other.

Any information on this subject will be received by any of the following Committee appointed by the searching party.

that the boy's body was not in the territory searched so carefully yesterday and it would seem impossible in view of the nature of the ground for a child dressed as little Arthur was to go very far under the circumstances, and therefore the Anderson creek story seems to be the most likely solution of the mystery.

Clearfield sent a contingent of more than two hundred men to Rockton. They were transported in motor trucks and automobiles. Many old-time woodsmen and hunters were in the crowd, a majority of whom had hunted or worked over the territory to be searched. They were marshaled by Mayor Callahan, County Commissioner Spencer and Hon. Joseph Phillips.

Another crew under the direction of W. I. Betts and L. C. Norris went to the head of Montgomery creek where the tracks of a boy had been found in the mud and searched that section of country thoroughly.

In addition to the twenty or more automobiles the trucks of the Clearfield Brewing company, Leitinger Bros., Mayor Callahan, Overly Bros. E. M. Fullington and the big Fullington jitney were pressed into service to carry the crowds wanting to go and render their aid.

Following yesterday's search the matter of a reward was taken up and in a few minutes a subscription was raised totalling $200 and this amount will be paid for the recovery, alive, of the missing boy. A number of stories hinting at kidnapping have been noised about with the hundreds of other lies told, and this reward should aid in turning out these theories.

The handling of this reward matter was placed in the hands of the Clearfield committee consisting of Hobart Callahan, H. H. Spencer, J. D. Connelly, Joseph E. Phillips and L. C. Norris.

A story was current about Clearfield this morning that the boy had been found alive and well at Johnson's camp on Meix Run, but unfortunately this proved to be untrue also.

We have arranged to keep in touch with Rockton and in case the boy or his remains are found The Progress will bulletin the announcement at once.

MANY TO ATTEND FARMER'S MEET AT DUBOIS

Particular Stress Will Be Laid On Matters Pertaining To Needed Foodstuff Increase

POULTRY EXPERT IS COMING

With the country looking upon the farmers to be the big factor in keeping the United States to the fore in the present war the annual spring meeting of the state board of agriculture and the Farmer's Annual Normal institute, which will be held at DuBois on May 22, 23 and 24 promise to be the most important gathering of influential agriculturists that has been held in the state for many years.

Farmers from every county in the state will attend the three day session and special attention had been taken in drafting the program to bring out prominently subjects which have a vital bearing upon the present efforts of the Pennsylvania agriculturists to do their bit for the nation. There are also measures before the Pennsylvania legislature affecting the farmer than at any other similar session in many years and it is likely that the legislative matters will be seriously discussed at one of the meetings.

The members of the state board of agriculture will begin to reach DuBois on Monday afternoon and the one hundred and fifty members are expected to be on hand for the roll call and opening of the business session on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The morning session will be a strictly business one and promises to be of much importance on account of the many matters now prominent in farming circles. The state board is composed of members elected by the agricultural societies of the various counties and represents agricultural leadership in all sections of the state.

The opening session of the farmers' institute on Tuesday afternoon will be in charge of T. L. Way, of Curwensville, the Clearfield county member of the state board of agriculture. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor Adam J. Haag and B. B. McCright, president of the DuBois Chamber of Commerce. The responses will be made by Professor Frank Lin Menges, of York, soil expert of the Pennsylvania department of agriculture, Charles E. Patton who is a Clearfield countyman hailing from Curwensville.

Without much delay the session will take up a question that is of great interest not only to every farmer in the state but to every man, woman and child interested in agriculture and engaged in home gardening. The address of great importance will be on "Humus, the Foundation of Soil Fertility," by J. Stuart Groupe, of Jersey Shore, Pa. At the same session W. Theo. Wittman, farm adviser on poultry for the Pennsylvania department of agriculture will speak on "Selecting Heavy Laying fens by External Characters." Every poultryman will benefit by hearing Mr. Wittman, who is one of the recognized poultry experts of the country. Start Suit To Prove Existence Of Will

One of the most peculiar cases ever tried in the courts of Clearfield county, and we doubt if a similar case was ever tried in Pennsylvania, was begun before Judge Bell this morning. This case attempts to prove the existence of a will which was never found or produced.

Mrs. Annie Pentz, residing near DuBois, died some time ago and after her death, as no will was found, two of her brothers, as next of kin, stepped in and took over her estate amounting to several thousand dollars.

Some months previous to her death Mrs. Pentz had a will written by a DuBois Justice of the Peace and told a number of her friends regarding the disposition of her property after her death, as provided for in the will.

Following her death a search of her effects failed to uncover the will and now a daughter of the deceased, who was named as a beneficiary in the will made, brings this suit and will ask a jury to declare same exists and to her share of the property in question.

OPERATORS AND MINERS ARE IN SESSION HERE TODAY

The operators and miners of District No. 2 are both in session in Clearfield today in an attempt to finish a solution to the wage difficulty in this district and to arrive at satisfactory agreement in line with the arrangement made by Secretary of Labor Wilson at Washington on Saturday last.

It is expected that following the agreement of the contending forces on their individual action a joint conference will be held here to ratify the working agreement to govern conditions in this field for the coming year.

UNCLE SAM AS A MEDIATOR

It was fortunate indeed that the Department of Labor saw fit to step in and avert the danger of a coal strike in the Central Pennsylvania Coal field and it is indeed a pleasure to note that the agreement as made in conjunction with the Department of Labor was along the line of the thought expressed in The Progress editorial of last week. The pact as agreed upon will necessarily mean industrial peace for both miners and operators alike until at least next April at which time the present scale expires as Uncle Sam is a mediator whose wish is final and whose dictates will be followed.

SPLENDID SPIRIT

It was indeed a splendid thing to see so many Clearfielders respond to the call to go to Rockton to help in the search for the little lad who is lost on the mountains surrounding his home. Their search and hard day's labor was without result except for that feeling that comes to every man who was there that he "done his bit" for the family who were undergoing the very torture of Hades while hearing the discouraging reports of the many searching parties who have roamed the mountains since last Tuesday afternoon in the hope that they would find the chubby faced little lad that meant so much to the happiness of the little rural home. Again, we repeat, it was fine. No better exemplification of the Golden Rule could have been made by the people from the whole county. There was no such thing as distance to those who heard their call to duty. They came for miles to help their neighbor whom they had never seen but with whom they grieved as men will do when extraordinary circumstances and heartrending incidents bring out the best there is in the makeup of mortal man.

ECONOMIZE WHEAT

In cartoon, in editorial, in proclamation, in appeals without number the farmer is being apostrophized as the savior of the country. His increased acreage is to feed us and our allies, to strengthen the fighting hand of all who have raised the sword against the Hun, and to win the final victory in the war, yet, without the planting of another acre, it is possible to increase the stores of flour by twenty-seven per cent through the simple expedient of milling the whole of the wheat instead of using selected portions of the kernel to produce the fine white flour which the aesthetic taste of this generation requires. Whole wheat is more nourishing and healthy than belted wheat, it furnishes more calories, it is cheaper. Bread made from it may not be as pretty as the other, but it will produce more punch. Today we are utilizing only about seventy-three per cent of the food-content of our wheat—and we are clamoring for the farmers to plant more wheat. Suppose we shift the loud pedal to the milling end of the problem. Suppose our flouring establishments begin to use the whole of the wheat and increase the output of flour by more than a third.

WAR HITS SHRINERS CONVENTION

Minneapolis, May 14.—War today halted preparations for a typical Shriner convention here June 25. Elaborate plans for a water pageant, games and brilliant receptions which were to mark one of the most gorgeous gatherings in years, were stopped upon announcement that all social features would be cancelled and only routine business meeting held by the Nobles.

Belief that the large sum spent on the convention will be needed for war purposes and that the railroads will be busy with munitions traffic as well as the probability that many nobles will be called into military service prompted the move. Thousands of Shriner men from all parts of the United States had been expected to attend. Only executives of the temples will come under the present arrangements.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

BACK TO THE SHANTY

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

THE children fixed a chair for daddy so he might begin the story at once: "A fisherman's wife once greedily got an enchanted fish to make her pope. But even this did not satisfy her ambition. 'You can be nothing greater than pope,' said her humble fisherman husband, gazing upon all the splendor and lights that she sat among."
"I will think about what you have just said," answered his wife.
"Then they went to bed. But Dame Isabell could not sleep all night for thinking about what she would like to become next. At last, just as she was dropping to sleep, morning broke and the bright sun arose.
"She sat up in bed and looked at the sun. 'What thought she, gazing through the window. 'After all, though I be pope, I cannot prevent the sun from rising.'"
"It seemed to her a hateful thing to be pope and still not have her own way. She became very angry at the thought and gave her husband a big punch in the back.
"Wake up!" she cried. "Go to the fish-prince and tell him I must be lord of the sun and the moon."
"The poor fisherman was half asleep still, but the thought of being lord of the sun and moon startled him so that he fell right out of bed.
"Alas, Isabell, can't you rest easy being pope?"
"No!" she cried. "I can't rest easy so long as I know the sun and moon rise without my consent. Go to the fish!"
"The man was shivering with fear. As he approached the shore a fearful storm arose, so that trees and rocks shook. All the sky became black with angry clouds, thunder roared and lightning split the heavens. Great white mountains arose on the sea, and the waves beat white-crowns upon their heads.
"So frightened that his heart beat in his mouth the fisherman crept up to the sea and said:
"O man of the sea, hearken to me!
My wife Isabell will have her own will
And hath sent me to beg a boon of thee."
"What will she have now?" asked the enchanted fish.
"Alas, she wants to be lord of the sun and the moon," said the fisherman.
"Go home in your piece," said the fish. And there Isabell and her husband bent face to this day," daddy finished.
Then the children clapped for daddy.

Hot Water Each Morning
Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to employ an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.
If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks to see your skin get clearer and cleaner, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.
Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexions, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.
A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.
Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.

WORLD DEMOCRACY FELT IN JAPAN

By Ralph H. Turner
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Tokyo, April 2.—(By Mail)—Japanese people have seen within the past few days a considerable advance in the constitutional history of Japan—the establishment of regulations by which the Japanese people may appeal direct to the throne.

The subjects of the land of cherry blossoms for the first time in history find themselves with power to inform the Emperor direct of their opinions concerning the rule of the country.

Means by which the Japanese may communicate direct with their sovereign were provided at a recent meeting of the Privy Council, an advisory body to the throne. His Majesty himself attended this meeting.

Those seeking for an explanation of this unexpected action have pointed significantly to the Russian revolution, professing to see here a touch of the world tendency towards democracy.

The new regulations, which have been approved and published in the Official Gazette, provide for the establishment of an office under the direction of the Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, who will receive any suggestions or grievances which the people may wish to express. These will be forwarded to His Majesty, who, if they deal with state affairs, will refer them to the Government. If the appeal is one involving court matters, it will be handled by the Minister of Household Affairs.

The Japanese Constitution grants the subjects of the empire the right of appealing to the throne, with due respect and through the proper channels, but heretofore these channels have been lacking and there has been no ruling to guide such an action.

As a result, the ancient custom of "Jikiso" sprang into being years ago. Dropping letters into the Emperor's carriage was a form of this practice. This was considered an unpardonable crime and the offender often met with severe punishment. In the old days the guilty person was beheaded. Recently a "jikiso" incident occurred and a dozen officials, feeling their laxity had been responsible for the affront to the Emperor, tendered their resignations. They were not accepted however.

OHIO MEDICS TO AID

Springfield, O., May 14.—"How can the physicians and surgeons of Ohio best aid the government during the war?" is to be the leading topic of discussion at the annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical society, which began its sessions here today with a large attendance. The control of cancer will be another leading subject of discussion during the three days' sessions.

Makes a Motor PURR

"Today, the specific gravity test in practically worthless as a check on the suitability of a gasoline, for example, for a given motor equipment. It is very probable that the definition of gasoline will have to be based on the percentage that distills over between specified temperatures, when the distillation is carried out under specified conditions."
"The gasoline must not vaporize too freely for two reasons: One, that it would not be safe, and secondly, its loss in storage by evaporation would be too great. Hence, the specification may have to contain limitations of the percentage that distills over below a certain temperature, coupled perhaps with a provision that certain percentages shall distill over below other fixed temperatures, in order that required amounts of low-boiling constituents shall be present to insure easy starting of an engine."
"Likewise, the specification must contain a provision that all must distill over below a certain maximum temperature, in order to exclude from the gasoline the heavier petroleum distillates, such as kerosene."
Official Press Statement by U. S. Gov. Bureau of Standards.
We've been preaching and practicing the same thing for years. The bottom-point of Atlantic Gasoline is always uniform. It meets Under 22nd's test perfectly.

BEDS

The bed was originally designed as a soft spot for the tired man to lie on. Most hotels and some private houses have utterly missed the idea. The average hotel bed is either hump-backed, sway-backed, suffers from lumps or is otherwise deformed.

Next in point of atrociousness is the sanitary couch. It may be sanitary but it doesn't even possess the advantages of that old-time instrument of sudden death, the folding bed. The folding-bed would occasionally serve to shut a man's wife up when nothing else could, but the sanitary couch can't even do that.

Then there's the narrow hall-bed-room bed. This type has to be fitted with stirrups before you can climb on it.

Special at the Globe Tomorrow

Anita Stewart is seen again in an intensely dramatic part—that of Chrissy Deselden, the ward of mature John Warburton (Charles Richman) who is worthy of her and wins her promise to marry him. Opposed to him is the dashing, young Robert Neyland (Rudolph Cameron) but who is not worthy of Chrissy's love. The girl, however, is fascinated by him and not until his misconduct for a moment dismays her does she turn from him to the older man.

After the wedding with Warburton, she at once recoils from her situation and pleads with the shocked bridegroom to treat her still as a child until she knows her own heart. This he in his nobility consents to do. In the meantime young Neyland goes quite to the bad. Despite this the call of youth grows stronger, and Chrissy decides she loves him.

Neyland plans to ruin Warburton financially. To do this he needs money from Chrissy, which she wires him permission to use. However, she learns at the last moment what treacherous purpose he plans with it, and her innate loyalty comes to the surface—just in time.

YESTERDAY ACTIVE DAY AT ELEVENTH ST. M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Collins preached two very able and inspiring sermons at the Eleventh Street M. E. church yesterday, the morning service being in harmony with the Mother's Day idea, and he brought out very forcefully the debt of gratitude we owe to our mothers, also the influence and part the mother has had in the world's history. Each mother present at the service was presented with a flower, emblematic of the respect due her.

The evening theme was that of service and co-operation, dealing especially with the fact that it is absolutely necessary for each individual to do that which they can, although it may be a small thing, in order that any organization can achieve its aim.

At the conclusion of the evening service Epworth League officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

Pres., W. C. Lawhead.
 1st. Vice, Miss Katharin Tibley.
 2nd. Vice, Guy Evans.
 3rd. Vice, Miss Helen Fulton.
 4th. Vice, Miss Ruth Beightol.
